Prayerful

Saturday was a full day! My son-in-law was in flight to Asia for business trip and while asleep on the plane, it turned around over Greenland due to the U.S./ Israel bombing of Iran. Picked him up at the airport. Thankful.

Later in the day, grilled food, ate on the back porch, played with the grandsons, plus mowing, working in the yard and good time with family.

Blessed beyond measure to live where I we live. While at the same time . . .

Praying for loss of lives in Iran, for innocent children in harms' way, for global chaos, and those who live in parts of the world controlled by evil regimes who do not value the lives of their own people.

Praying for military people who have to obey orders in the name of national security.

Praying for those who serve in the name of Jesus in war torn places and risk their lives for following Jesus. Persecution for following Christ happens daily.

I will be Christian, no matter what. My only hope for personal and global peace!
